

St Mellitus College

Admissions Policy

St Mellitus College (SMC) wishes to operate open, fair and effective procedures for admitting new students to the institution. This policy sets out the criteria for admission to accredited programmes, the processes for assessing the potential of prospective students, and for making them an offer of a place. It also sets out the procedure for dealing with complaints and for maintaining the necessary records for the processing of admissions on an applicant by applicant basis.

This Policy governs admission to all accredited undergraduate and postgraduate programmes offered by the College. It does not cover Beginning Theology, the School of Theology, or non-accredited study.

Process

Programmes at SMC will be publicised via the SMC website and through networking with Bishops, DDOs and other ministers involved in enabling ordinands and LLMs to secure a training place. Sometimes undergraduate or postgraduate students are referred through similar processes but they are more likely to find out about SMC and its programme via the college website – www.stmellitus.ac.uk.

To ensure parity across all College sites, the administration of admissions is held centrally by the Admissions Officer, who is overseen by the Director of College Operations.

An application is initiated by completing an electronic application form via the College website. This forms a key part of the evidence on which the College will make its decision as to whether to offer the applicant a place. Upon receipt of the form, the Admissions Officer undertakes a preliminary screening of the application, and unless it is immediately clear that the candidate cannot satisfy the admissions criteria (see below), invites the applicant to an interview and passes their application to the academic staff member who will be interviewing them.

At the Open Day, the prospective student will have the opportunity to sit in and sample some undergraduate teaching, meet students and staff, hear an introductory talk about the College, and be given a tour of the site. All prospective ordinand students are interviewed on Open Days by at least one core member of the academic staff. All prospective independent students are invited to an interview at a later date following a successful application. Unsuccessful applicants will be notified via email that their application is not being pursued. Applicants will be hear from the college within four weeks of the submission of an online application.

At the discretion of the centre director, interviews for prospective independent students may be held on the same day as the Open Day. A standard agenda is used by the interviewer which gives the candidate the opportunity to show whether they fulfil the admissions criteria (or could fulfil them by the time of enrolment). A written record is made of the interview in the form of notes on the agenda.

Following the interviews, all interviewers meet together with the Admissions Officer or equivalent onsite coordinator to discuss and agree offers. This collaborative approach ensures that all students are treated equally. Interviewers form their judgment as to whether the applicant either meets the criteria for admission or will do so by the time of enrolment on the basis both of their written application and on the basis of the interview. Provisional decisions are made with respect to offers. At this stage the offer will usually be conditional on the receipt of satisfactory references, and other conditions may also be attached (for example, achievement of requisite A level grades, or arrangement of a long-term placement for students for whom that is relevant).

In some cases, the College will require further evidence before making an offer – for example, for MA candidates or for candidates seeking admission direct to level 5, the transcript of the applicant's previous studies. All MA candidates must submit a piece of work at at least level 6 of at least 2,000 words in order to assess their aptitude for level 7 work. Applicants for the MA in Christian Leadership who do not have a Theology degree must write a new piece of work as determined from time to time by the Graduate Tutor.

With the exception of ordinands and LLM candidates, who have already been through a rigorous selection process within the Church, two references are taken up for each candidate, one academic and one personal. A third reference is taken for Youth Ministry students from their church leader.

Where in the judgement of the College there is uncertainty concerning the applicant's suitability for a particular programme, they may either not be offered a place or, at the discretion of the College, be offered a place on a lower award with the possibility of transferring to a higher award subject to satisfactory progress. Such a transfer would be subject to a further application in accordance with this policy, and applicants should note that admission to the higher award is not guaranteed by passing the lower award. Satisfactory progress is usually considered to be achieving average marks of 2:2 or higher to progress from a Certificate to a Diploma, or Diploma to BA Degree. In the case of ordinands who receive 3 years of funding and are offered the BA Degree route with the possibility of moving to an MA in their second year: ordinands must normally achieve an overall 1st on the Certificate in order to switch to an MA. If these higher grades are not met, the ordinand would continue on the BA programme.

Applicants will be notified of the College's decision in writing by email within 10 working days of interview. Successful applicants will receive the Terms and Conditions and a Reply Slip included with the offer letter, and the candidate must confirm on the Reply Slip that they have received, read, and accept the Terms and Conditions. Unsuccessful applicants will be notified of the outcome of the interview with a letter of decline.

Where references and/or further information are required, offers will be conditional.

After acceptance of the offer and return of the reply slip, the Admissions Officer will confirm receipt within 10 working days.

Should a candidate wish to defer their offer, they can indicate this on the Reply Slip and the offer will be valid for one academic year. Students taking up a deferred offer will be liable to pay the fees in place for the year of enrolment.

Candidates must inform the College of any medical conditions which may affect their studies or special educational needs of which they are already aware. This information will not be used in determining whether to offer the candidate a place, but to ensure the College has adequate opportunity to make preparations and any adjustments necessary for the candidate.

Criteria for admission

As a College which offers qualifications in Christian theology and ministry, St Mellitus looks to admit students who show promise of being able to complete their programme at the relevant level of qualification and who will be able to exercise ministry and leadership within the church, either during or after their course of study. Successful applicants must meet all relevant criteria for 'all students' and some will need to meet the criteria for more than one additional category (for example, if they are an ordinand hoping to pursue an MA, they will need to meet the additional criteria both for ordinands, and for MA students).

Criteria for all students

- The College will only consider applications from students who will be 18 by the time they enrol.
- Aptitude for study appropriate to the level of the qualification applied for (see below for further details with respect to each programme).
- Sympathy with and willingness to engage fully with the worshipping life of the Centre at which they are studying.
- Willingness to engage appropriately with the rest of the student body and staff team at both their own centre of study and, where relevant, the wider SMC student body.
- Evidence of maturity of character suitable for Christian ministry and theological study.
- Evidence of involvement in and commitment to the mission of a local church, which would normally be part of a member denomination of Churches Together in Britain and Ireland and/or the Evangelical Alliance.
- Involvement in ministry and preferably leadership in a local church or church-related context, or sense of vocation to be a Christian presence in a secular workplace.
- Evidence of ability and desire to communicate the gospel in both formal and informal contexts.
- Evidence of good interpersonal skills on a one to one basis.
- Evidence of ability to work collaboratively as part of a group.
- Potential for growth into future leadership or leadership positions within the church.
- Desire to study the breadth of topics covered by the course.
- Adequate ability to understand and communicate in written and oral English.
- Fit of the student with the ethos of the College and suitability for cohort and group participation and involvement.
- Students need to be proficient computer and internet users to study on our programmes.
- Ability to provide proof for all qualifications listed on the application form.
- Ability to provide verification of identity as part of the Induction process.
- International students would need to acquire a Visa for the entirety of the course before applying, as we are unable to offer sponsorship.

Additional criteria for undergraduate students

- Undergraduates will normally have three A Levels (grade C or above) or equivalent for direct entry to a BA, two for entry onto a Diploma and one for entry on to a Certificate (see below for possible exceptions).
- For the Graduate Diploma, because the programme takes place alongside students taking the final year of their BA in Theology, Ministry and Mission, the College is responsible for ensuring that successful applicants can demonstrate sufficient prior aptitude for theological study such that they will not be disadvantaged by entering study at St Mellitus College at this level. Applicants must normally have an Upper Second class Honours Degree or a Diploma (HE) in Theology with a substantial proportion of their graded credit at Merit/Upper Second level. However, especially for mature students, prior professional experience will be taken into account as well as educational qualifications.

Additional criteria for MA students

- As noted above, submission of a degree level academic paper of no less than 2,000 words, which must demonstrate the candidate's aptitude for postgraduate level study.
- A 2.1 degree is normally required for direct entry to any MA (see below for possible exceptions).
- For the MA in Theology, Ministry & Mission, the BA should be in Theology or have contained substantial study of Theology up to level 6.
- Applicants with a Graduate Diploma in Theology or an equivalent subject will be considered, and the College will look to satisfy itself at interview as to whether the candidate has adequate preparation and grounding for study at MA level.
- At present the agreed maximum of postgraduate students is 20 per centre for the MA in Christian Leadership per year and 30 per centre for the MA in Theology, Ministry and Mission per year. Places will therefore not simply be allocated on a first-come, first-served basis but students may be invited to join a waiting list. Final decisions will be made on the basis of the aptitude of students for the course relative to one another, based on the criteria set out above. Final decisions will be communicated to students by 31 July.

Additional criteria for all ordinands

- Recommendation for training from a Church of England Bishops' Advisory Panel or equivalent from a different church (with agreement from a Church of England Bishop). This process includes an assessment of the candidate's educational aptitude for training.
- Share the College's commitment to 'Generous Orthodoxy' i.e. working and worshipping together with ordinands from across the breadth of the Church of England and beyond.

Additional criterion for full-time church based ordinands

- Capacity to undertake a part-time placement in a ministry context.

Additional criteria for LLM candidates

- Recommendation from the appropriate diocesan advisory process to train as an LLM. This process includes an assessment of the candidate's educational aptitude for training.

Exceptions

- Where the requirements for aptitude for study appropriate to the level of the qualification applied for are not met, the College may at its discretion choose to offer places to students who can evidence:
 - equivalent academic potential, normally after the satisfactory completion of an academic admissions test, such as the submission of a book review;
 - having passed the educational criteria associated with the Bishop's Advisory Panel or diocesan LLM selection process.

If there is any doubt about the candidate's aptitude for study at the desired level, as noted above the College may offer the candidate the chance to commence on a lower award.

Accreditation of Prior Learning (APL) and Prior Experiential Learning (APEL)

Students who have prior accredited study or whose own learning and wide life experience have enabled them to meet learning outcomes for particular modules or levels within their course may if they wish apply for a formal exemption from those modules or levels. This is a separate process to the process for application for admission and is normally subsequent to it. The College is governed by the policies of its accrediting Universities with respect to the award of APL and APEL (see the Durham Common Awards Policy for Accreditation of Prior Learning and the latest version of the Middlesex University Regulations). Any applicant or student who wishes to apply for APL or APEL should contact the Academic Co-ordinator.

Records

The College keeps electronic records of:

- number of applicants per programme;
- number of offers per programme;
- number of offers accepted.

SMC's obligations in the Admissions Process

- (a) routinely to document the reasons for admissions decisions in order to facilitate the provision of feedback to applicants upon request;
- (b) to endeavour to resolve any concerns raised by applicants informally in the first instance;
- (c) to operate fair, effective, and timely procedures to enable students to raise admissions complaints in the event that informal resolution is unsuccessful;
- (d) to document clearly its internal procedures for raising admissions complaints so that applicants are aware of: the opportunity to raise an admissions complaint; the procedure they will need to follow to raise a complaint; which member(s) of core staff to contact at each stage in the process.
- (e) to ensure that complainants are aware of their right to refer admissions complaints to the relevant accrediting University should they remain dissatisfied after the SMC has reviewed the complaint formally;
- (f) not to discriminate against applicants who request feedback or make a complaint should they submit another application;
- (g) to oversee admissions complaints through its Management Committee in order to monitor quality and standards, and report to the University. SMC will ensure effective record-keeping to ensure that any decisions made throughout the process are documented clearly for review and audit purposes.

Review of the admissions policy

The Admissions policy will be reviewed annually by the Management Team in July. This review will include information provided to prospective students to ensure that it is accurate and current. The review will also consider the admission statistics collected for that academic year.

Admissions Appeals and Complaints

Admissions appeals or complaints may be progressed according to the following process:

LEVEL 1: Appeal or investigation of the complaint by the College
STAGE 1: SMC: Informal resolution	Prospective students who wish to make an appeal or raise a complaint should do so as soon as possible, and no more than 28 days after the event unless there is good reason for the delay. Even if a formal complaint is received, we will try to resolve the complaint using informal mechanisms in the first instance, where appropriate. This will involve a conversation either by telephone or in person between the applicant and the Dean or his nominee who will be a senior member of College staff. This conversation will identify the basis of the appeal or complaint and any relevant evidence. Information will be sought from the members of staff implementing the selection process. At the conclusion of these informal resolution attempts, the student will be informed of the formal complaint procedure and any deadline for submitting a formal complaint (normally 14 days).
STAGE 2: SMC: Formal resolution	The formal stage will be instituted only if the informal procedures have been exhausted and the appellant or complainant remains dissatisfied. They will be required to submit a written account of the basis of their appeal or complaint explaining why they believe that their appeal or complaint is justified. This document should normally be submitted within 14 days of Stage One ending. The Dean or his nominee will consider written evidence from the appellant or complainant in relation to this admissions policy. This will require information on the procedures undertaken by staff involved in the admissions process and will examine the relevant written records. The Dean will adjudicate on whether or not the appeal or complaint should be upheld. The result will be sent to the applicant in writing within 28 days of the formal complaint being received.
LEVEL 2: Referral to the University
STAGE 3: University review	If the complainant remains dissatisfied once SMC's informal and formal procedures are exhausted, they will be informed of their right to request a review by the relevant University. The University will determine whether to review the admissions complaint, and will ascertain whether SMC's admissions policy and processes have been implemented correctly. If procedural irregularities are identified, the complaint may be referred back to SMC for further review.
