AIMS AND LEARNING OUTCOMES

3. Educational and Formational Aims

The educational and formational aims of the programme are described in terms of the people for whom it is designed, the pedagogy it embodies and the purpose it is intended to fulfil.

People

The aim of this programme is to equip Christian disciples and ministers to develop as competent and faithful reflective practitioners. To this end it provides an education in theology, ministry and mission in and for a variety of contexts.

1. Preparing people for professional ministry and mission within churches:
For some students the Certificate represents the first step in preparing for recognised lay and ordained ministries in the Anglican, Methodist, Baptist and United Reformed churches. The programmes serve institutions representing Anglican, Methodist, United Reformed, Baptist, Roman Catholic and Orthodox churches, as well as being open to students from other denominations.
2. Preparing people for lay ministry and mission in the world:
The programme also serves those who wish to be more fully equipped for Christian life and service in the world, or simply more informed about the Christian faith. Within this category, some students will be preparing for ministry and mission among children and young people within and beyond ecclesial structures. Typically, students will be preparing for service in third sector and statutory organisations as well as in churches.

The programme aims to offer education that is accessible to students with a wide range of educational backgrounds and professional and personal circumstances: many will be mature students, many will be employed and therefore studying part time, many will be in active ministry, while still others will be pursuing the programme as full time residential students. The programme will therefore be available in a variety of modes of learning and teaching, including traditional full time residential learning, part time and part-residential learning, and distance learning supported by online and face to face engagement.

Pedagogy

The aim of this programme is to provide an education in theology, ministry and mission that encompasses the development of character and the nurturing of virtues and spirituality alongside the acquisition of knowledge and understanding, and the development of cognitive and practical skills. The programme aims to enable students to engage more deeply with themselves, others, the church, the world and God by offering learning and teaching that

1. form students in various disciplines, but bring those disciplines together to inform and enrich one another;
2. are constantly oriented towards the ministry and mission for which students are being prepared; and
3. by their modes of assessment and methods of learning and teaching enable students to develop as lifelong reflective learners.

Purpose

The purpose of the programme is to offer the first stage of personal and professional preparation for a range of Christian ministries as well as to satisfy the aspirations of those students who undertake their studies to enhance, broaden and deepen their discipleship and ministry in other contexts.

From a professional point of view, the aim of the programme is to

1. offer pathways of study that contribute to meeting the range of professional and vocational criteria for the public ministries for which students are being prepared;
2. satisfy the aspirations of those students who undertake their studies to enhance, broaden and deepen their discipleship and ministry in other contexts; and
3. provide a firm basis from which to pursue further study in theology, ministry and mission at degree level.

From a personal perspective, the aim of this programme is to develop dispositions that are congruent with, and necessary for, Christian ministry and mission in the church and the world. The aims of the programme are that learners completing the programme will have become

1. open to the questions, insights and ongoing formation generated by attentive study of Scripture, and be willing to go on being transformed by them;
2. aware of the skills and disposition needed to go on reading themselves, the church and the world in the light of Christian doctrine, and to explore Christian doctrine more deeply in the light of experience and practice;
3. deeply aware that they are heirs to a long and complex history, aware of their place in that history alongside many others, and attuned to the work of the Holy Spirit in the church and the world through history and in the present;
4. passionate and prayerful advocates for the mission of God;
5. clearer about their vocation in the church and the world and therefore more determined to pursue personal and corporate life long learning as disciples of Christ;
6. open to the insights and challenges that emerge from serious engagement and cooperation with others, in and beyond the church.

4. Programme Learning Outcomes

3. discuss knowledgeably some core aspects of Christian discipleship, such as worship, mission, spirituality or ethics, and the questions to which they give rise.

Subject Specific Skills (SSS)

On successful completion of the programme, students will be able to:

1. identify the context and genre of selected biblical texts, and comment intelligently on their significance for the texts' interpretation;

In addition, they offer the student the opportunity to demonstrate the ability to make connections with other disciplines and with practice and test students' ability to communicate well in writing under time pressure.	SSS 1, 3 KS 1, 2

7. Formative Assessment Policy

Formative assessment will be designed to support student learning by providing feedback to students on their learning during the course of all modules. It is also an opportunity, therefore, for the teacher to assess the effectiveness of his/her teaching and to make appropriate adjustments before the module is completed. Formative assessment will encourage students to place their learning in a wider context, with opportunities for self-assessment, peer and teacher feedback.

The specific mode of formative assessments varies from module to module. However, formative assessment will be used as an opportunity to strengthen particular aspects of students' learning, namely:

- reflection on the development of personal dispositions / character in relation to the subject matter of the module. Some dispositions are outlined in the aims of the programme; more extensive descriptions form the background to the different pathways leading to professional ministries, as, for example, the churches' learning outcomes for ordained ministry.

- integrating the learning of the module with that of another subject area, with a skill or competency, or with the context of a placement, the workplace or experience.

8. Assessment criteria

See Appendix 1.

The assessment criteria in Appendix 1 give an indication of the standards that will be used for marking written assignments and examinations at Level 4. However, additional marking criteria, accompanied by assessment guidelines, will be produced centrally for all TEIs to use for the range of assessment types listed in Section 6. These will give students clear guidance on how they can use the assessment task to demonstrate achievement of learning outcomes, and will enable teaching staff to have criteria that match the method of assessment.

The guidelines for each method of assessment will indicate

- The purpose of the assessment.
- The nature of the content of the assessment.
- The kinds of learning outcomes being assessed.
- Technicalities of presentation.
- Marking criteria for each level.

9. Contribution of assessment modes to final mark

The percentage composition of final marks in relation to forms of assessment will vary from one TEI to another, depending on pathways through the programme and the chosen methods of assessment. All TEIs will ensure a range of assessment types is offered. However, it is likely that many pathways will not include formal examinations as a mode of assessment that contributes to the final mark.

STRUCTURE OF THE PROGRAMME

Total credits overall:	Minimum credits at Level 4:	Maximum credits at Level 4:
120 credits	120 credits	120 credits

This programme may be studied full time over one year or part time over two or three years.

10. Outline syllabus for the programme

Each TEI will be responsible for developing pathways that ensure all students have the opportunity to achieve the programme learning outcomes.

See

- Appendix 2 for programme regulations
- Appendix 3 for a full list of modules,
- Appendix 4 for a mapping of modules against programme learning outcomes

At Level 4 students are introduced to the core areas of subject specific knowledge, namely biblical studies, the Christian tradition and ministerial theology. The modules at this level offer a survey of subject specific knowledge to enable students to gain a good foundation in theology, ministry and mission. The Certificate also enables students who wish to progress to level 5 study to do so within a clear framework for further study of theology, ministry and mission.

Students are also introduced to the subject specific skill of relating their knowledge to experience and practice in the context of mission and ministry. This may take place in direct relation to the student's practical formation, or in interdisciplinary modules with a professional and/or denominational focus, or in other ways. In addition, students are introduced to the subject specific skill of theological reflection. The programme offers students the opportunity to engage with their profession and/or practice either through a short-term placement, through work-based learning or through a sustained placement that lasts throughout the student's programme of study.

Coherence

The overarching coherence of the programme arises from its orientation towards ministry and mission, and the formation of students in practices of theological reflection that integrate disciplines with each other and with practice and experience. In many cases – although not exclusively so – practice is related to the professions for which students are preparing: ordained or lay ministries in the participating churches or Christian youth and children's ministry more broadly.

Breadth

The programme is designed to ensure that students gain a balanced and broad foundation in the study of theology with an understanding of its implications in church and society as well as for Christian faith.

Depth

The programme aspires to engender a thirst for lifelong learning. An independent study module is available for students who wish to pursue a particular focused interest in greater depth at this level.

International / global dimension

The study of theology, ministry and mission has an intrinsically international dimension that forms an inherent part of the curriculum. The contextual emphasis ensures reflection on the implications of theology, mission and ministry across cultures; some modules address this intercultural dimension explicitly. In addition, some students have the opportunity to take up placements abroad and some participating institutions have partnerships with overseas organisations and churches from which both students and staff benefit.

11. Learning outcomes at each level of study

Not applicable since the Certificate is a single-level 120-credit programme.

12. Indicate which modules are pre- / co-requisites within the programme

There are none for this single-level programme.

13. Typical Admissions Requirements

Entry to this programme is flexible, depending on the student's experience, employment and education. In general, applicants – especially those with little or no employment history – would normally have at least one A-level (Grade E or above) or equivalent. However, for mature students, relevant work experience may be considered in lieu of formal academic qualifications. Applicants will need to demonstrate their potential to benefit from study at Certificate (HE) level in Theology, Ministry and Mission.

In general, up to a maximum of 40 credits of accredited prior learning may be granted to students who have evidence of, or can demonstrate learning that fulfills the relevant learning outcomes of the Certificate programme (by completing a portfolio of work, for example).

Students who have successfully completed the Certificate are eligible to apply to continue to the Diploma (HE) in Theology, Ministry and Mission programme.

Students for whom English is their second language should have achieved a score of 6.0 in an IELTS examination, or equivalent.

THE PROCESS OF PROGRAMME DESIGN

14. Relation of the programme to the QAA Theology and Religious Studies benchmark statement

The TRS benchmark statement acknowledges the range of institutional contexts in which the study of theology is offered, including the professional formation of ministers and other professional programmes. The statement describes and affirms the range of modes of learning in this subject, including full time residential programmes, distance-learning programmes and a range of part time and part-residential programmes. Clearly, the range of institutions participating in delivering the Certificate (HE) in Theology, Ministry and Mission falls within this affirmed diversity of provision.

The TRS benchmark statement assumes a degree level programme, so only some aspects of its guidance is of direct relevance for the limited scope of a Certificate programme.

The statement suggests that ‘students should be expected to be confronted with some of the questions raised by this general intellectual history [of TRS as a subject] and to consider viewpoints other than their own and other than any declared stance of the institution where they are studying. Critical dialogue is essential to the subject as studied at HE level.’ This programme responds to this by including the study of church history (including the history of mission) and Christian doctrine and by insisting on critical theological reflection as a core skill that students must develop throughout their studies.

The benchmark statement suggests that all programmes in TRS should touch upon most of the following:

- A broadly based core together with the wider context required [...], and specialised study in depth of some aspects of the discipline [...]
- One or more religions [...]
- The reading, analysis and interpretation of texts, sometimes in the original languages [...]
- Engagement with some of the major religious thinkers [...]
- The application of a variety of critical methods of study [...]
- The history of the particular discipline(s) covered by the programme, including the major theories, movements and thinkers [...]
- Ethics, morality, and values [...]

Not all of these are – or indeed can be – addressed within the breadth of a Certificate programme. However, the Certificate does offer broad foundations at level 4 in biblical studies, history and doctrine as well as other subjects with a more ministerial or applied focus (worship, mission, for example).

In addition the statement proposes a number of qualities of mind that should be developed as part of TRS study:

- The ability to understand how people have thought and acted in contexts other than the student’s own [...]

- The ability to read and use texts both critically and empathetically [...]
- The appreciation of complexity [...]
- Sensitivity to the problems of religious language and experience [...]
- Appreciation of the interconnectedness and internal tensions within a system of beliefs and practices [...]
- Basic critical and analytical skills [...]
- The ability to employ a variety of methods of study [...]
- The capacity to give a clear and accurate account of a subject [...]

These attributes can be found in the subject specific and key skills for the programme, and many are addressed particularly effectively through the emphasis on a contextual approach that demands the skills and habit of critical theological reflection.

Among the teaching methods described within the statement there is a clear affirmation of practical placements (akin to those undertaking training for the caring professions), which form an important component of this programme.

Finally, the learning outcomes of this programme have drawn from, and are congruent with, the knowledge and understanding, discipline-specific and intellectual skills and the generic (transferable) skills described in the TRS statement insofar as they can be covered within the scope of such a limited programme.

15. Relation of the programme to the University's Qualification Descriptors and the QAA Framework for Higher Education Qualifications

The programme learning outcomes and regulations are consistent with Durham University's Qualification Descriptors, which, in turn, are consistent with the QAA's Framework for HE Qualifications.

16. How the programme links research and teaching

Teaching and learning in the theological education institutions takes place among relatively small cohorts of students. Small class size, combined with the accessibility of teaching staff for informal engagement, enables a research-imbued culture to flourish.

Research-led: Teaching and learning takes place in an environment where teaching staff are research-active either through academic inquiry or professional practice. The teaching and learning, therefore, draws upon the processes, as well as the findings, of the specialist and active interests of teaching staff from the very beginning of the learning process, giving the experience of learning an immediacy and relevance that is energising and motivating.

Research-oriented: Students are inducted into the process of inquiry in the field of theology at level 4, progressing to understanding and applying sophisticated methods of research and theological inquiry by the time they reach levels 6 and 7. For the many mature students on the programme, this will involve building on the skills and aptitudes which they bring from their educational and professional backgrounds (see page 3). The methodologies of theological reflection are introduced at the start of the programmes and all modules encourage application of this method of inquiry in formal and informal ways. Students are encouraged to challenge and question knowledge and praxis, thereby developing discerning intellectual independence that equips them for lifelong learning and discovery.

Research-based: the programme's strong emphasis on contextual learning and critical theological reflection leads to a research ethos to the learning process that blurs the roles of teacher and student as both explore the relationship between theory, practice and experience together. Methods of teaching, learning and assessment focus on the process of knowledge generation and the critical interrogation of research findings, creating an environment in which both students and teachers are learners.

Research-informed: a key driving force in the design of this programme has been the desire to embody a pedagogy that better serves its constituency and which shapes HE pedagogy more widely. To this end the collaboration between the partner institutions and Durham University will promote and sustain active engagement and research into the pedagogy of ministerial theology. Students will be encouraged to contribute to this process by means of active engagement in evaluating and discussing their pedagogical experience.

17. How the programme is influenced by interdisciplinary links, requirements of professional bodies and other relevant standards and principles

This programme represents a significant national development in the education of lay and ordained ministers for the Anglican, Methodist, Baptist and United Reformed churches. In order to ensure that the programme fulfills the churches' professional requirements for public ministries as well as the aspirations of the participating TEIs, theological educators and practitioners have been extensively and intensively engaged in a collaborative approach to its design. Over a period of fifteen months TEI staff and church representatives have gathered in three conferences, each involving over 100 participants. In addition, colleagues have gathered in smaller groups in over 25 workshops around the country. This level of participation has ensured that the programme meets the requirements of both the churches served by the TEIs as well as the TEIs themselves, in their capacity as independent theological education institutions. The result is a programme that offers a degree of commonality, coherence and parity, while embracing the welcome diversity of a wide range of institutions around the country. In addition, the churches' close involvement in the process ensures that the programme is fit for purpose in relation to preparing leaders for the ministry and mission of the church.

Students who are sponsored by participating churches for recognised ministries must fulfill learning outcomes stipulated by the churches in addition to the programme learning outcomes. In the case of the Church of England, for example, the learning outcomes are stipulated and monitored by the Ministry Division of the Archbishop's Council. This means that students who have successfully completed the programme are nevertheless subject to the church's authority in relation to their preparedness for the ministry for which they entered training.

STUDENT SUPPORT

18. Arrangements for academic support of students

The exact form in which students will be supported varies from one participating institution to the other. However, each institution has

- a staff member in a 'director of studies' role who is able to advise students on module choices (where relevant) and who will track student progress.
- tutors who provide pastoral and welfare support to students and monitor academic progress.
- teaching staff who offer academic support.

There is a programme handbook for all participating institutions that sets out the details of this programme and its regulations and procedures. In addition each institution provides a handbook that sets out the local regulations, practicalities and ethos within which the programme is delivered.

Students receive both a mark and written feedback on all summative assessments. Feedback on formative assessments will vary depending on the nature of the assessment, but could involve written or oral feedback.

19. Policies relating to admission of particular groups of students and support for them

Individual institutions have policies relating to admissions and disability support. Teaching staff at the institutions are supported by Durham University Service for Students with Disabilities in relation to guidance and information. All institutions have staff with particular responsibility for supporting students with study skills.

OTHER ISSUES

20. Field trips, placement and related opportunities

Reflective involvement with the realities of the church and the world are a hallmark of teaching and learning within this programme that encourages a continuous and critical conversation between knowledge and experience. The opportunity to engage in visits and placements is therefore an important feature of this programme. The modes of engagement include

- Field visits as part of a specific module of study, with which the whole class is expected to engage.
- Extended visits, including overseas visits, for individual students or groups of students, which comprise a placement, or are extracurricular or form part of a specific module.
- Placements arranged in negotiation with the institution as an integral part of the student's programme. This could be an attachment to a church or parish throughout the student's programme of study, or a short-term placement in a church or other organisation, such as a hospital, a third sector organisation, a military institution, a school or another educational establishment. In all of these placements, a named person would act as a supervisor and would liaise with a staff member at the sending institution to ensure that the placement has the capacity to offer the student the opportunity to achieve specified learning outcomes.
- Work based learning is also available to part time students for whom this is an appropriate mode of learning. Most commonly this is likely to be a student who is employed (voluntarily or in a remunerated capacity) in a church or church-related context.

21. Other matters relating to the students' learning experience including those that enhance students' development but are not assessed

Students undertaking the programme will be engaged in communities of prayer and worship, whether within the training institution, a local church or another form of intentional faith community. Underpinning the programme is a commitment to the communal, collaborative and contextual nature of learning: learners are confronted with the provisionality of human articulations of truth when others' interpretation of it differs from their own. Institutions will encourage learners to be inspired by such experiences, seeing them as prompts to become lifelong learners who appreciate uncertainty, ambiguity and the limits of knowledge.

This communal dimension is an important part of developing students in a more holistic sense, as well as offering significant opportunities for genuine collaborative learning and shared experience upon which to reflect theologically, often in a corporate setting.

QUALITY MANAGEMENT AND ENHANCEMENT

22. Management structure of the programme

Each participating institution has a board of studies ('management committee') which has overall responsibility for the programme. A staff member acts as a programme leader who is responsible for the day to day running of the programme. A University Liaison Officer will support the institution and liaise between the institution and Durham University.

The individual institutions' boards of studies will report to and liaise with the overarching Management Board for the Common Awards.

23. Monitoring of the quality of the programme, including opportunities for students to express their views

Durham University will appoint external examiners for each participating institution which will operate its own Examination Board for the programme. The overarching Management Board of the Common Awards Partnership will consider the procedures and outcomes of all participating institutions' Examination Boards annually.

Each institution will have a procedure for enabling student feedback at both module and programme level. In addition there will be a staff-student consultative committee at each institution. Student feedback will be considered and acted upon at the board of studies.

The Annual Review process will report on admissions, learning, teaching and assessment, student progression and achievement, external examiner feedback, student support and guidance, student feedback results, resources, quality management and enhancement.

24. Staff development issues relating to the programmes

Core teaching staff in participating institutions will be able to access a range of staff development opportunities. Many are lay or ordained ministers of churches which offer their own professional development programmes. In addition, TEIs will ensure annual and peer reviews for staff which will have a professional development focus. The Validation Plus partnership with Durham will offer professional development opportunities through national staff conferences that will foster research in ministerial and theological education and a nationwide platform for professional engagement.
